Investing into 'The Golden Triangle' offers high rent-ability, occupancy and secure capital growth. Lapa is a historically noble and wealthy district of the capital and is currently a melting pot for international investment and development.

Whilst being one of Lisbon city's smallest districts it makes up for its size in pure charm. Cobbled streets hide independent cafes, restaurants and fashion outlets. Breath-taking architecture and history waits behind the turn of every corner.

Lapa trickles down from one of Lisbon's 7 hills to meet the banks of the river Tagus (Tejo), in fact it crowns one of the city's highest hills and the views are predictably impressive. Although it is a calm and pacific area, it is still close to the city's bustle. There are many sights to be enjoyed in Lapa, such as the prominent Basilica da Estrela and its neighbouring gardens.

This area is also known as the "Embassy Quarter" as it hosts many Embassies and Consulates from foreign countries. You'll see flags from windows marking the Embassies of France, Austria, Switzerland, Luxembourg, Finland, and The Netherlands to name a few.
